SUMMARY

As the daughter to a first generation immigrant I have never taken for granted the meaning of hard work. I've always viewed technology as usable art and its similarity to architecture. It is utilized and interacted with every day. I value efficiency, creativity, and the belief that there is never just one solid solution to every problem. I believe technology is the key to building a brighter future and I aim to contribute my software engineering skills to a team that aspires to not only change the world with technology, but to also build a more advanced world together.
